There are always good people in this world. Many don't have the means to give, but they do help others.

They really shine this time of year. Maybe it's the season or maybe people notice more on holiday. One day, I read about two 36. One is a donator from Kansas City, Missouri. They call him "Secret Santa". Every Christmas, he 37 at food banks, shelters and other places where people 38 go for help. He hands $100 bills to those people. This year he travelled to places where many people 39 everything to hurricane (飓风) Sandy and visited the hardest hit areas and gave away $100,000.

That same day, I read about a police officer DePrimo. While patrolling (巡逻) the square, he noticed a 40 man sitting on the sidewalk. His feet were bare — no shoes or socks. DePrimo was 41 dressed but still felt cold that night. He walked up to the man, asked him for his shoe size, went inside a nearby 42 and paid seventy-five dollars, walked outside, and handed him the new socks and winter boots. The man was moved to tears as he 43 the gift.

Officer DePrimo did this with 44 thought of being known for his kindness. A passer-by witnessed the event and took a picture that tells a story that many will never forget. 45 this kind man has much less than Secret Santa to give away, he gave from his own savings to a man who was cold in winter and had nothing.

If there are more people like Secret Santa and officer DePrimo, the world could be a pretty beautiful place.

We have dreams when we are very young, and dreams change as we grow older. I have had my dream since I was a kid. It represented my childhood memories and my efforts to realize my dream.

I remember it was in primary school. I dreamed of becoming a writer, even though it now seems naive. But at that time, as a child's dream, it contained hope, happiness and concentration. With my passion for achieving the dream, I kept reading and writing for four years.

Like what I said, we may have different dreams at different ages. But no matter what kind of dream we have, the process that we keep trying to achieve it is the most important.
