A. Choose the best answer (根据文章内容，选择最恰当的答案): (12分)

The earth is faced with serious power problem now and all of us are affected by it. Should we leave everything to the government, or can we do something to save power? The answer is clear. If not us, who? Let us look at how you can save power at home.

Computer: More often than not, we do not turn off our monitors (显示屏) even after we have shut down our computers. And we often leave our computers on when we walk away to do something else. Keep the monitor and the computer switched off when you are not using them. Start doing this even when at work. You will help save some of the earth's important power.

Air conditioning: Put the temperature at the minimum or maximum strongest that you are comfortable with, depending on the season. Try not to put it at too-high or too-low temperatures. This helps you save lots of power.

Washers: Do you use your washing machine as frequently as you wish? Do you use your washing machine even when there are not many clothes to wash? Reduce the times of washing by cleaning plenty of clothes every time.

Television: Unplug (拔出插头) the power plug of your television set when not using it. This may not sound like a big deal but this little step will help oneself save power.

Fridge: Do you always put hot food into the fridge? Bring cooked food to room temperature before placing it into the fridge. You can also spare power by bringing cold or frozen food out of the icebox a great deal ahead of the mealtime. Thus, you don't need to heat it.

69. The underlined part in the first paragraph means "_____".
- A. If we don't use power, who will use it?
B. The government should be responsible for saving power.
C. If it is necessary to save power, who will do it?

The rise of e-learning

21 February, 2053

A new study published today shows that e-learning is more popular than ever. According to a survey, 57% of students now get degrees through e-learning, with only 43% getting degrees by attending a __75__ university. We spoke to Zhong Tai, an eighteen-year-old student from Sichuan Province who started an e-learning course last month.

"After I finished high school, I knew I wanted to continue to study," Zhong Tai told us, "I really wanted to study economics at university, but I felt bad about __76__ my parents. My father suffers from a severe illness. He needs help moving around. He also needs someone to cook his meals and give him his medicine at the right time each day. My mother is a teacher, so she cannot help him during the day. We didn't want to hire (雇) someone to look after him. It had nothing to do with money. I just didn't feel right leaving my father with a ___77___. My mum suggested I go to a university nearby and continue to live at home, but none of the universities close to my home town offer economics. Then my friend suggested I find out more about e-learning. I soon learnt that I could get a good degree without going away from home. I applied to the university of London, and they ___78___ me. I started an economics course with them four weeks ago. ”

Yet, though Zhong Tai is now a student at the University of London, he has never been to Britain. In fact, he has never left Sichuan.

We asked Zhong Tai whether he felt bad about missing some ___79___ enjoyed by students studying on the campus, such as making new friends from different places.

“Not at all,” he replied. “I have made a lot of friends with people from my course online. ___80___, during the evenings and weekends, I go out with my friends from high school. Since most of them also use e-learning, we all still live close to one another!”

My Big Day

There were about 15 kids there for audition(试镜) when we arrived I had been 81. u_____ about being late on this Big Day but the bus, which moved slowly all the way, woke up and almost galloped for the last half mile. Dad and I jumped off and ran to 171 High Street. I had 82. e_____ a shiny building but what I saw was a broken ancient door. And the room into which we all crowded was dark and didn't have enough chairs. A boy was 83. p_____ audition piece loudly, unaware of everyone else in the room. Most of the kids were in jeans, but a few dressed seriously cool as if they spent every day on film sets and lunching with 84. s_____. I felt a bit embarrassed about my dressing.

A girl called us away, one by one, to be auditioned. I breathed deeply and slowly as I and learned to do – ever since my first part in the school play, when I was extremely nervous and 85. n_____ forgot everything I had memorized. I repeated my speech to myself with all the pauses and emphases in the right places. I knew I was good. I really wanted this part. I wanted to pay Dad back for all the work he'd done for me. I wanted to make him proud of me. And I knew I could do it.

Suddenly – there it was – my 86. n_____! I followed the girl down a corridor into a large room with three men and a woman sitting behind a long table. The woman looked up and said hello. Then the middle man looked up and stared hard at me.

“How tall are you?” he asked.

“I'm 1.6 metres,” I said, trembling slightly.

The man looked at the woman and I saw him 87. s_____ his head

The woman turned to me and said, “I'm so sorry. That's just a bit too tall for this part. They should have told you.”

D. Answer the questions (根据短文内容回答下列问题): (12分)

I grew up in a small town in Italy. One morning when I was 16, Dad told me I could drive him into a village, about 18 miles away, if I took the car to be serviced (保养) at a nearby garage. Thinking that, I have just learned to drive, and hardly had the chance to use the car, I agreed happily. I drove Dad into the village and made sure to pick him up at 4 p.m. Then I drove to a nearby garage and dropped off the car. Because there were still a few hours to be left, I decided to watch movies at a theatre near the garage. But, when the last movie finished, I was two hours late. I was afraid of the result of being late. I thought if Dad knew what I had done, he would never let me drive again. So when I drove up to the place where we had planned to meet and saw Dad waiting patiently on the corner, I told him that I had come as quickly as I could, but the car had needed some special repairs.

"I'm terribly sorry that you feel you have to lie to me, Jason."

"What do you mean, Dad? I'm telling the truth."

"I called the garage to ask if there were any problems, and they told me that you have not yet picked up the car. So I know there will no problems with car. I'm angry not with you but with myself. You see, I've felt as a father, so I'm going to walk home now and think carefully about where I have gone wrong all these years."

"But it's dark, and it's 18 miles to walk home."

I pleaded (请求) all the way, telling him how sorry I was. But nothing helped. I had to drive behind him for 18 miles.

It was one of the most painful moments I have ever had. But it was the best lesson.

88. How old was Jason when the story happened?

89. What was Jason let to do if he took the car to be serviced at a garage?

_____.

90. Where did Jason go after he dropped off the car at a garage?

_____.

91. According to Jason, what might be the result of his being late?

_____.

92. How did Dad punish (惩罚) himself for not doing well enough as a father?

_____.

93. What could Jason learn from his father's action?

_____.
