Many families take their children on vacation. They will usually travel for a few days or weeks during school breaks. But Julie and Tim Smith planned a special vacation. It's much longer. The Smith family is on a one-year trip around the world with their two children. They plan to visit 30 countries in all. Right now, the four travelers are about halfway through their trip. Mrs. Smith says they are trying to see as much of the world as they can.

Mr. Smith says one of the most interesting experiences of the trip is meeting new people. He says people have been really friendly, very welcoming and love their kids. Eleven-year-old Tyler says he has enjoyed learning about the people they have met. He says, "I learned in Africa that people have very different lifestyles." His sister, 9-year-old Kara, discovers that she likes Thai food. Mr. Smith says that the trip teaches the children a lot.

It took the family a year to prepare for the trip. They had to sell their house and cars. Mrs. Smith left her job. They carry small bags filled with whatever they need. Mrs. Smith says she enjoys being able to carry everything she needs on her back. She says she does not miss the things she has at home. "What has become more important is making these memories as a family." The Smiths will continue to head east for the next six months.

Tea has been with us for a long time. It's said that tea was traded in China 5,000 years ago. But do you know International Tea Day? It was named by the UN and May 21, 2020 marks the first International Tea Day. It not only celebrates the delicious drink but also tries to improve the working conditions of the tea farmers and workers. It makes the public know the importance of tea all over the world.

Tea is the world's second most popular drink. It is widely loved by millions around the world — each culture with its own tradition.

Tea was discovered in 2727BC in China. When the ruler Shen Nong was boiling water over an open fire, some leaves from a tea plant fell into the water. Shen Nong then fell in love with the drink. And now it has become a common drink in Chinese culture. Drinking tea is a centuries-old tradition in the UK. There's tea for breakfast, tea during break time, tea to wake up, tea to relax ... For Indians, tea is also a huge part of daily life.

Help yourself to some tea when you are free. Maybe, you will fall in love with it, too.
