第二节 书面表达 (共15分)

One possible version:

Nowadays, an issue commonly present in our school is that quite a few of us suffer great tension. Personally, our anxiety mainly results from academic performance. To deal with this problem, we may take the following measures into consideration.

First, we should keep exercising, which is an amazing way to remove our nervous energy from our mind. Second, try to get enough sleep. Studies suggest that a sound sleep, to a great extent, contributes to better emotions. Last but not least, as the proverb goes, laughter is the best medicine. So we are supposed to train ourselves to keep smiling under great pressure.

Above are my suggestions about handling the tough issue. I believe they will absolutely make a big difference.
